AUTOMOTIVE

The central performance parameters in the automotive industry continue to adapt worldwide. This affects costs, quality, production processes, supply chains, management expertise as well as the return on investment. As a result of this competitive equality, enterprises demand new differentiation strategies in order to guarantee future success.

With an in-depth understanding of business requirements, we are able to create integrated solutions that add real value for automotive OEM's, importers and dealers world-wide.

MEDIA INDUSTRY

Structural changes in the film industry, multi-channel networks, digitization, shorter release windows - these are just a few keywords which can be described as challenges for the film and media industry, requiring a need for strategic innovation management for companies in this sector.

Conessent's experience with global media organizations spans 10 years, with special focus on designing of global finance templates. Because these organizations are able to record all business transactions using a system that is fully integrated with all other operational areas of their business, their accounting data is always accurate and up-to-date.

OPTOELECTRONICS

The dynamic competitive environment places high demands on the innovative power of companies in the optoelectronics sector. Increasing customer expectations regarding product quality and a greater diversity, rapidly changing market conditions and a variety of legal requirements and regulatory requirements increase pressure on faster development and market introduction of new and innovative products.

Conessent provides solid system architecture, intelligent design, stringent implementation and consistent roll-out within the framework of global ERP projects and helps companies in the optoelectronics sector ensure their competitiveness and growth.

FOOD & BEVERAGE

In the food processing industry, the factors of time and quality play an even greater role than those in the rest of the manufacturing industry.

Conessent offers a scalable and integrated SAP® solution for investment management companies in the food industry.

TELECOMMUNICATION

The telecommunications industry is highly competitive. With its own network or current products, only marginal growth can be expected, and this can no longer be generated with conventional business models. Whether wireless technologies and broadband, mobile data services or cloud computing - companies need to focus on integrating its services, simplifying its operating models and strengthening customer relationships in order to survive.

Conessent has more than 60 years of telecommunications-specific expertise and knowledge gained during international implementation projects. Our SAP® PPM/RPM - based solutions will help keep portfolios and projects under control - from initiation, planning and budgeting to monitoring and management. The connectivity with operating SAP® ERP systems enables you to reduce project costs and product time to market.
